Orange School System Launches COVID-19 Tracker

Melissa Nicefaro Orange Town News Correspondent

In response to concerns after extending remote learning for an additional week after the winter holidays, the Orange School System set up a COVID-19 tracker for families to be aware of the number of students and staff who have either contracted COV-ID or who has come close to someone who has.

As Superintendent Vince Scarpetti explained, the district has planned for one remote learning week after the new year. At the end of that week, there was an increase in the number of positive cases, not only in the Town of Orange, but specifically with children who attend the elementary school. The district opted to extend remote learning an additional week and students returned to the classroom on January 19. "I thank the parents who reached out about the additional week and because of this communication," Scarpetti said. In response, the district created the dashboard to make clear to parents how many cases are affecting Orange elementary school families.

The dashboard – a Google Doc – is categorized by school and is shared with parents in weekly newsletters and on the district's website. The information is updated on the Doc each Friday by the district's director of nursing.

"One thing to note: this information is based on what is told to us by parents and staff. Sometimes there is different data that goes to the health department because of information that they receive versus what we receive. So, we ask our parents and staff to communicate as much as they can with regards to the well-being of their

Orange Residents Approve Country Club Purchase

By Bettina Thiel Orange Town News Correspondent

In a referendum on February 16, Orange residents overwhelmingly approved the purchase of Race Brook Country Club, appropriating $8.6 million for the purchase of the golf club at 246 Derby Avenue, a purchase that includes 287 acres of land, buildings and improvements. According to Town Clerk Patrick O'Sullivan, 1704 voted yes, 772 voted no. Of the 2,476 total votes counted, 589 were received as absentee ballots.

Finance Director John Cirafelli said last week that the town and the country club still need to finalize a contract before the town can go out to bond for the purchase. For financing, the town would be looking for a 20-year bond, which, combined with interest, will cost the town some $10.3 million. However, the town will also be receiving lease payments from the club, said First Selectman Jim Zeoli at a virtual town meeting February 2 on Zoom. Those lease payments to the town will total $10.6 million over a 40-year period. "Their return to the town will be greater than the expense of the 20-year bond," Zeoli said. "This is not a bailout." The lease payment would be $250,000 for the first five years, then increase to $380,000. At the same time the town would lose $125,000 in property tax income.

Taxes will make up the difference between the lease payments once they kick in, and debt payments. Zeoli estimated that for a home worth about $360,000 the purchase would add roughly $52 to the yearly tax bill; families," Scarpetti said, adding that some parents were concerned about communicating decisions with regard to remote and in-person learning in order to allow time for them to make arrangements for childcare, especially during remote learning.

"As shared in past communications, parents, students and staff need to be ready to transition with short notice. That being said, we understand the challenges that parents and staff face in order to quickly prepare for remote learning," he said, adding, "More times than not, decisions have gone out Friday afternoon when information is shared regarding positive COVID cases for that week. We realize that can be frustrating to both, our parents and our staff."

Each Thursday evening, the state shares the positivity rates on its website. Every Friday morning, the BOWA superintendents and health directors have a standing meeting to discuss not only what is on the state website, but also what is occurring in each specific district.

"I apologize for any inconvenience this poses to our students and staff, though with the intention of having our students in school while keeping safety in mind for all, these decisions are not made lightly and we want the most recent data in order to make an informed decision," he said.

Amity Steps Up In-Person Learning

By Bettina Thiel

Orange Town News Correspondent

During the last week in March students at Amity High School will start attending school five days a week instead of the current two days, School Supt. Dr Jennifer Byars informed parents in a letter dated March 1. Even so, she warned that things can change at any time, given public health indicators.

Serving lunch in a socially distanced manner has been a challenge for administrators since they started discussing the different instructional models last summer, and as a result the school days at the high school will still end at 12:47 pm. There will be no lunch served during the school day, but a free grab-and-go meal is available to all students, she wrote.

At the smaller middle schools, the district will move to a full day of instruction four days per week, (Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday). By increasing lunch waves, the schools will be able to offer a lunch period during the school day. School will begin at 7:34 am and the day will end at 2:18 pm. On Wednesdays, students will still attend school in-person, but will be dismissed at 12:12 pm to permit teachers time to plan for and work with fully remote learners.

As of March 5, about 20% of middle school students were learning voluntarily from home, and about 28% of high school students. This will still be a choice parents can make going forward, Dr. Byars wrote in an email. Families can either follow the school instructional model or be voluntarily remote.

The Friday Metrix tab on the Amity district website on March 4 showed three positive cases at the Orange Middle School, with 32 in quarantine; and six positive cases at the high school, with 68 people in quarantine.

As for after-school activities, the schools will continue to have both virtual and in-person after-school activities, Dr. Byars wrote. Students who are following the school instructional model can participate in all activities. Students who are fully remote may participate in virtual activities. "For in-person activities, we still expect all students to go home at dismissal time and return to school changed and prepared for the start of their in-person activities," she wrote.

Volunteers Needed

Orange Soccer is most successful due to all the great volunteers we have. Please consider coaching your child's team. Pre-season training is available for 1st time coaches. In order to coach, please register your child and also yourself. If you are a first time volunteer you will need to enter your birthdates and Social Security Number, so that the Connecticut Junior Soccer Association may run a free background check.

Sponsorship Opportunity

Orange Soccer also greatly appreciates all of our sponsors and offers two levels of sponsorship:

- Basic: 1 season $100
- Deluxe: 3 seasons $200

You can sign up to sponsor your child's team by indicating so on the registration page and supplying a logo in solid black or solid white to orangesoccerct@gmail.com.

Thanks Go Out to Volunteers

My wife had the opportunity to visit High Plains Community Center and receive her first COVID-19 vaccination last week. I would like to extend a special thank you to OVNA, CERT, and Dr. Mohammad of the Orange Public Health Department for their kind and thoughtful treatment. The warmth and thoughtfulness offered on that day was above and beyond the call of duty, especially with the anxiety that comes along with the procedure. The volunteers are to be commended especially working with limited resources. The distribution of the vaccine is of utmost importance along with masking, social distancing, and proper hand washing in helping to get this pandemic under control. I urge the officials of the Town of Orange to continue supporting this effort, both thru the proper funding and guidance so that our citizens will remain healthy and COVID-19 free. Dr. Lawrence Messina

Yale Journalism Symposium Inspires Future Journalists

BY ZACHARY GARFINKLE On February 27th and February 28th, Amity High School students attended a journalism symposium held by the Yale Daily News (YDN). The attendees had the opportunity to speak with renowned journalists and learn about the journalism process with Yale Daily News staffers. Typically restricted to the New Haven area, the new online format allowed for international students to learn as well.

The legendary Bob Woodward, longtime Washington Post investigative reporter of Watergate fame, answered many questions about his processes, perspectives, and past experiences. When asked how he continuously gets people to divulge information given his reputation, he explained that "you have to develop a relationship, a trust with people. And that is a capacity to listen... it's amazing, I think people are kind of secret sharers." Woodward evidently has interviews down to a science, recommending that "8:15 on a Tuesday night is the best time to visit." He elaborated with a thrilling anecdote concerning getting information from an uncooperative four-star general, saying,

"[I owe my success to] showing up and making it clear to him I wanted to hear what he knew."

Emily Nelson, Senior Editor at the Wall Street Journal, dispensed valuable advice to the prospective journalists. When a student asked how to pursue this career path, she responded, "It can be the smallest story, the most local topic. You can write for any outlet... but just seeing the work is what we want to see."

Students attended fascinating seminars such as "Reporting 101: From Idea to Print" and "Dead, Dying, Reborn: The Future of News." Orange teens discussed how to write the perfect article and how journalism may evolve and take other forms.

As the conference came to a close, the YDN held an awards ceremony for student newspapers and articles. Although no Orange students secured the victory, a few select schools and students from across the globe managed to leave the symposium with validation for their hard work. Everyone, however, left with something far more invaluable: journalistic knowledge directly from the world's leading authorities, and a headstart on their future careers.

DID YOU KNOW? Durable Power of Attorney Instrument: Customized Financial Decision Making

- A Durable Power of Attorney Instrument allows others to make financial decisions for you if you can't do so on your own. If you are incapacitated and don't have a Durable Power of Attorney Instrument your family will need to ask the Probate Court to have someone appointed as your conservator.
- The person you appoint to act for you is called your agent. Your agent can engage in routine transactions such as writing checks to pay your bills, endorsing checks for deposit to your accounts, and signing contracts on your behalf.
- In most cases, your agent also can engage in more substantial transactions such as opening and closing financial institution accounts, selling stocks or bonds, selling real property, and borrowing money if needed to keep you afloat.
- In many cases, your agent also has the authority to make gifts to family members, including the agent. This gift giving authority is important if long-term care planning becomes necessary.
- The scope of the authority you grant your agent is an important decision you need to discuss with your attorney. Although your agent is someone you trust completely, limitations and protections sometimes need to be included.
- If you are legally competent, you can revoke your Durable Power of Attorney or you can revoke the authority of your agent.
- If you or your family believe the agent is acting improperly, an application for a review and an accounting also can be filed with the Probate Court.
- As with all legal documents, there are pros and cons. On balance, our experience is that in most cases having a carefully prepared Durable Power of Attorney Instrument is in your best interests and the best interests of your family.

If you are interested in learning more about Durable Power of Attorney Instruments please visit our website and read our blog for recent posts. For advice specific to you or your family, please contact the office. We would be glad to meet with you for a no hassle, no charge initial consultation, no matter how long it lasts.

Tax Season Scam Alert

Presented by Roberta L. Nestor

With tax season upon us, many of us are busy gathering the appropriate documents, meeting with CPAs, and ensuring that relevant tax deadlines are met. But in all the hustle and bustle, taxpayers also need to keep an eye on the risks, especially tax season scams. Each year, scammers get more savvy with strategies they use to gain access to other people's personal information and money.

New Round of COVID-19 Scams: As the coronavirus continues to spread, so do scams, unfortunately. Criminals often try to exploit taxpayers during times of uncertainty, and this pandemic has been no exception. The latest COVID-19 scams center around the most recent round of stimulus payments. They have taken on a few forms, all with the singular goal of stealing taxpayers' money and personal information.

Red flags: The IRS Criminal Investigation division has compiled a list of the latest COVID-19 scams. Here's what to be on the lookout for:

- Text messages asking you to disclose bank account information in order to receive the $1,400 economic stimulus;
- ✓ Emails, letters, and social media messages that use "coronavirus," "COV-ID-19," and "stimulus" in different ways, requesting personal information and financial account information (e.g., account numbers and passwords);
- ✓ Sale of fake at-home COVID-19 test kits;
- ✓ Fake donation requests for individuals, groups, and areas heavily affected by COVID-19;
- ✓ "Opportunities" to invest in companies developing COVID-19 vaccines, which also promise these companies will drastically increase in value as a result.

Pro tip: If you receive unsolicited emails or social media attempts that are aimed at gathering your personal information and appear to be from the IRS or an organization linked to the IRS, forward the message to phishing@irs.gov. contact the IRS immediately.

- As noted above, ensure that your tax preparer has the appropriate credentials.
- Unless there is a valid reason, don't give out your social security number—and always know who you're giving it to.

Pro tip: The best way to avoid this scam is to file your taxes early, before a scammer can access your information. You might also think about using an Identity Protection PIN (IP PIN) to proactively protect yourself from identity theft. The IP PIN is a six-digit number known only to you and the IRS that can be used to help the IRS verify your identity when a paper or electronic tax return is filed.

Never Has the IRS Ever...When it comes to tax scams, one of the most important things to know is how the IRS does (and doesn't) contact taxpayers. Here are some things the IRS just won't do:

- Demand that you pay taxes without the opportunity to question or appeal the amount it says you owe;
- Call to demand you make an immediate payment using a specific method (e.g., prepaid debit card, gift card, or wire transfer);
- ✓ Threaten to bring in local police, immigration officers, or other law enforcement to arrest you for not paying (threats are a common tactic used by scammers).

So, if you get a call or email that sounds like any of the above, it's likely a scam. For steps to take if you suspect fraudulent tax activity, visit the IRS's Report Phishing and Online Scams page.

Scams Don't End with Tax Season: Although the focus here is on tax season, we would all be wise to remember that new scams are popping up every day, yearround. So, remain vigilant in keeping your personal information safe and be on the lookout for potential scams.

Online Identity Theft: One of the most common tax scams remains personal identity theft, which is particularly rampant during tax season. Why? By accessing the social security numbers, addresses, and birth dates of unsuspecting taxpayers, scammers can file phony tax returns and steal refunds. The worst part is this can all be done before the victims even know their identities have been stolen.

Red flags: So, what can you do to help ensure that someone doesn't file a return in your name? Know the warning signs of this pervasive scam:

✓ If you receive an IRS notice regarding a duplicate return, that you received wages from somewhere you never worked, additional taxes are owed, the refund will be offset, or collection actions are being taken against you for a year you did not file a tax return, a $700,000 home would see a $105 increase, and the homeowner of a $1 million home is looking at a $158 tax increase. These figures are estimates until the financing is finalized.

Due to the pandemic, public discussion of the proposal was limited. The virtual town meeting served as a forum to inform townspeople about the proposal. Letters from residents were read into the record. But discussion continued on Facebook, focusing on whether preserving more open space is inherently preferable to allowing development, even condos.

"I think the drive to keep things underdeveloped here in Orange is why it passed," wrote Alisa Hobart Paskiewicz on Facebook. "Most want it to remain a smaller town and not an overdeveloped city such as Milford has become."

CT Braces is honored to expand service to the Orange community and surrounding areas. Pendergast Family Keeping The Lights On

BY BETTINA THIEL Orange Town News Correspondent

Lamp Shades Plus, a longtime family-owned business specializing in the art of dressing up lamps and repairing those that had stopped working for one reason or another, is closing its doors after the untimely death of its owner, Jill Pendergast, in December of last year. "She LOVED that store," said daughter Rachel in a phone interview earlier this month. "She'd be in there seven days a week." Rachel said the family decided to keep the store running, at least part-time, in honor of her mom. They are open for business on Saturdays and Sundays only, from noon to 4 p.m.

The business was started by Jill Pendergast's parents, Jim and Carol Tendler in 1979. The store had the feel of an antique store – with lampshades of all sizes and shapes stacked from top to bottom. "They had the largest collection of shades in New England," Rachel said. Since Jill took over the business, it lost its cluttered charm to a more stylish array of table lamps of all styles.

Repairs were done either on the counter - if Jill could take care of it herself — or were left for her husband, John, who would do the repairs on the weekends. Jill started working there part-time while she raised three children — Jake, Dan and Rachel — until her parents' retirement. "She was an expert in her field," Rachel said. "It was such a 'niche' store." Interior designers from all over the nation would order from them, she said, including Martha Stewart and other celebrities. One designer ordered lampshades for the Sydney Opera House. But the more the market shifted to other lighting technology, the more "niche" their particular knowhow became.

medical practice in Brookfield, and has been tinkering with lamps on the side for years, ever since his wife took over the business from her parents. In fact, it was his father-in-law, Jim Tendler, who taught him the repair part of the business. "He is very handy," Rachel said of her father.

Jill Pendergast passed away unexpectedly at age 60 in December when she was admitted to Milford Hospital for an intestinal hernia. After her passing, the family realized that she had gotten in arrears with her lease payments earlier in 2020, when she had to close the store for the Covid pandemic. A family friend, Brittany Hart, opened a GoFundMe page for them.

"Jill fought tooth and nail to keep her family business afloat so that residents all over Connecticut and beyond would be able to have beautiful lamps and lampshades to light up their homes," Brittany wrote. But the lease is running out at the end of this month. Rachel said they did get an extension to the end of April, which gives them some time to get things in order.

Many of her mom's old customers have visited the store since they decided to re-open on weekends. They came to share stories or simply to reach out. Jill had a group of customers who would pick up lunch for her, Rachel said, because her mom often did not want to leave the store. Now her brother Dan is the "chief lunch officer."

John Pendergast, who has been doing the repairs for his wife, will continue to accept repair jobs, his daughter said, and the phone number, (203) 795-6628, will continue to be active. A physician's assistant by trade, John Pendergast runs a small "She had a lot of very loyal customers," John said in a television interview on WFSB, Channel 3. Some customers bring in lamps they bought 30 years ago from Rachel's grandparents.

Keeping the store open has been therapeutic for the family, especially for John, but also for Rachel and Dan. She has a full-time job in technology in Boston, and drives down to Orange on weekends. Brother Dan, a resident of Milford, is helping out with the store as well. The family has been so busy, they have yet to finalize the obituary.

"Keeping the store open is almost like keeping my mom alive," Dan said in the television interview.

Pack 922 Happenings

During the Month of February Pack 922 stayed active. Dens met, Scouts made cards for the Orange Volunteer Fire Department to say Thank You for being brave and we had our annual Ski Trip at Mount Southington. Throughout the day on the Mountain scouts took lessons, rode the slopes and enjoyed time with the members of the pack.

On Monday, February 22nd the Tiger Den visited the Orange Firehouse to learn about being a firefighter and to get a tour of the station. The Tigers have been working hard to accomplish many of their achievements and visiting the fire house was a bonus after they all have learned emergency phone numbers and have planned and tried a fire escape at their respective homes. The Tigers saw a firefighter dressed up in full gear, rolled up hoses, jumped through a window and crawled on the floor following a fire hose. They got a good education in what to expect if they are ever in a situation where they needed to be rescued. The Tigers also learned all the duties that may be expected of a firefighter while at a call. We thank the firefighters for being so generous with their time and for helping the Tigers understand the bravery and strength it takes to be an emergency worker.

The Components of the Town of Orange Budget 63% ALLOCATED FOR EDUCATION

by Jim Leahy Vice-Chairman, Orange Board of Finance

The Orange Board of Finance wishes to ensure that all taxpayers in Town have a solid understanding of how their tax money is spent. To that end, the following article outlines the major Town budget components, the spending on education, and the trends of spending categories over time.

Summary of Town Budget Components

The Orange Town Budget is comprised of 4 major elements: Amity Regional High School, grades 7-12; Orange Board of Education (OBOE), grades K-6; Town Departments; and Capital & Debt. As seen in the graphic above, the amounts & percentage of the Total for the current fiscal year 20-21 are: Amity $25,003,802 (34%); OBOE $21,414,585 (29%); Town Departments $24,343,060 (33%); and Capital & Debt $2,993,859 (4%).

Education Spending is 63%+ of the Budget

The Town has been long committed to excellence in all its endeavors, including education. Personally, I recall that "the school system" was an important factor when I chose to move to Orange back in 1983.

The Town of Orange spending on education is the sum of the Amity & OBOE budgets, $46,418,387 in total for current FY 20-21. This commitment to Educational excellence is well expressed by the fact that we currently spend nearly 63% of the overall budget on our school systems.

Moreover, part of the Capital & Debt service should also be included. As Kevin Houlihan, Chairman of the Orange Board of Finance, explained, "The Orange BOE use our Town buildings. Major repairs to those buildings are funded by the Town through bonds. This funding is also part of the Educational cost." Therefore, the total amount spent on Education is actually higher than 63%.

Kevin Moffett, long-time OBOF member commented, "The chart shows that education is in fact important as it's 2/3 of our entire budget. We have to consider all the parts in our budget preparation, our schools, our town departments, and Amity."

Town Budget by Service Sector - Spending Trends over Time

Each year the Town Finance & Administration Department tracks spending by eight major "Service Sectors." These major categories are: General Government, Public Safety, Public Works & Public Buildings, Culture & Recreation, Health & Welfare, Employee Benefits, Education, and Town & Debt Services. Above is a graph of the most recent information for last 8 years - FY 13-14 through FY 20-21.

Trends

NOW

From the above graph, two trends are highly noticeable: first, Employee Benefits has risen significantly, particularly in the last three budget years. Health Insurance costs and increased contributions to Pensions are the primary drivers of this increase. Secondly, investments in Education have climbed steadily, each year over the last 8 years. Once again, the Town's financial commitment to education is readily visible, even though overall student population has declined measurably over this period.

Contactless Paper Shredding & Mattress Recycling Day

The Orange Recycling Committee has announced the next paper shredding and mattress recycling event to be held Saturday, April 10, 2021 from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. at the front parking lot of High Plains Community Center (HPCC). The committee will again be joined by the Mattress Recycling Council, who will collect used mattresses and box springs.

The secure, on-site paper shredding service will once again be handled by Affordable Solutions, owned and operated by Orange resident Joe Johnston. Residents may bring bags (preferably paper, not plastic) or boxes filled with documents for shredding. Volunteers from the Orange Recycling Committee will deposit them into the shredding truck. Residents who want their boxes or containers returned should tell a volunteer.

Due to COVID-19, residents are asked to put documents in their trunk, wait in line, and pop the trunk when it is their turn. To keep this event as "contactless" as possible, residents should stay in their vehicle. Wearing a mask is requested.

This service is generously funded by the Rotary Club of Orange. Residents may show their appreciation by donating to the Orange Rotary Scholarship Fund. Rotarians will be on hand to collect donations.

Residents may also bring mattresses and box springs for recycling. This free service is made possible through a partnership with the Mattress Recycling Council's Bye Bye Mattress Program. Dry mattresses (of all sizes) and box springs will be accepted. However, some items cannot be accepted (see 'Mattresses and box springs: DO NOT BRING' below). For residents who need assistance, members of the Orange Lions Club will pick up mattresses and box springs from residences, given items are outside and dry or in a garage for easy access, as volunteers will not enter individual homes. Anyone interested in this pick-up service should contact Ken Lenz at 203-795-3906. The fee for pick-up is $10 per mattress or box spring. Payment is by cash or check made out to Orange Lions Charities, and all proceeds are considered a charitable donation.

If residents are in the cleaning out mode, they may also bring old clothing and shoes to deposit in the Simple Recycling bin near the back of the community center. This bin is available 24/7, making it a great option for when the Orange Transfer Station & Recycling Center is closed. The town gets paid for items deposited in the Simple Recycling bins at High Plains and the Transfer Station and Recycling Center.

Green Rivers are St. Patrick's Day Traditions

Even though the first color associated with St. Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland, was blue, eventually green became the hue of choice to commemorate his work and the holiday established in his honor. Because Ireland is dominated by green, rolling hills, the country is affectionately known as the Emerald Isle. And green clothing and decorations have become the standard each March during St. Patrick's Day festivities.

It is one thing to drink a green beer or paint a green shamrock on your cheek, but dyeing an entire river green is an immense and awe-inspiring homage to St. Patrick's Day.

Since 1962, the vast undertaking of dyeing a river a bright shade of green has been a St. Patrick's Day tradition in Chicago. Tom Rowan, a 76-year-old retired police officer, handles the task, and hi handles the task, and his methods are top secret. The Chicago River has been transformed into a verdigris waterway every year, with the exception of 2020, when COVID-19 halted holiday plans.

However, someone other than Rowan managed to dye portions of the river green in 2020.

While the Chicago River is the most prominent green river on St. Patrick's Day, others currently emulate the same effects or have done so in the past. The Irish Marching Society decided to bring the tradition to Rockford, Ill., and dye Rock River last year. San Antonio, TX; Savannah, GA; Indianapolis, IN; Charlotte, NC; Tampa, FL; and Washington, D.C. all have dyed various rivers green. In 2020, city officials in Dublin, Ireland, intended to dye the River Liffey green as well.

Nontoxic dyes and environmentally safe products are used to produce the green hues. Some stick around for a few hours, while others may last for days until they dissipate. While they last, green rivers can produce dramatic effects that are fun to behold.

They will tell stories about native cultivated crops, raised livestock and harvested fish which have formed a distinctive Connecticut cuisine.

The historical chronology of Connecticut food begins with indigenous crops, such as corn, which was introduced to the colonists by local Native Americans. Over time, the colonists accepted corn as a food choice and created new variations, such as succotash, johnny cakes and hasty pudding. A variety of fruit and berries were made into pies, cobblers and cakes. Shellfish were stirred into a tasty creation, New England Clam Chowder, which has become a traditional favorite.

If you are interested in learning about foods served with a slice of history, go to the Library website to register. Eric Lehman and Amy Nawrocki, professors of English at the University of Bridgeport, have authored numerous books about Connecticut and New England topics.

The Library will send you a confirmation. On the day of the program, you will receive an e-mail from the Library with the Zoom link to the program.

Professor Steven Smith

Sunday, March 21, 2021 at 10am on Zoom Patriotism, Our Most Contested Virtue

Prof. Smith, Alfred Cowles Professor of Political Science at Yale has written about Spinoza, Lincoln, Leo Strauss and Isaiah Berlin. His new book about patriotism came out in February.

The concept of patriotism has fallen on hard times. What was once a value that united Americans has become so polarizing that it threatens to rip apart the social fabric. On the right, patriotism has become synonymous with nationalism, while on the left it is seen as an impediment to cosmopolitan globalism. My purpose is to reclaim patriotism from both of these extremes by showing how it can be an ennobling virtue that democratic societies cannot afford to do without. Books are available for purchase in the B'nai Jacob office. Jewish refugee from Hitler's Europe overcame challenges to have a rich and meaningful life as a Yale physician, as reflected in his gripping autobiographical stories.

ZOOM SCHEDULE of weekly services and classes:

Nicholas T. Catanuto, MD

On January 31, 2021, Nicholas T. Catanuto, MD, formerly of Orange, Connecticut, loving husband of Joan (Lazarchick) Catanuto, and father of 4 children, Carolyn, Michelle, Michael, and Kimberly, passed away at the age of 88 years.

Nicholas was born on April 18, 1932 to Sebastian and Eleanora (Guzzardi) Catanuto in Brooklyn, New York, where he spent his childhood years (across from Ebbets Field) before moving to Goshen, New York, where he attended St John's High School. He worked his way through his undergraduate education beginning in 1949 with a partial scholarship at New York University, and completed his degree at Saint Peter's College (now University) in Jersey City, New Jersey, in 1955. He wed Joan Lazarchick in July 1955. He received his MD degree from Dalhousie University Medical School in Halifax, Nova Scotia, in 1961. He served in the US Navy from 1961 to 1964, for 2 years on shore, where he was 1 of only 2 Medical Officers who cared for the community at the Naval Weapons Station in Concord, California, and 1 year at sea as Chief Medical Officer. In 1964 he moved his family to Orange, Connecticut, where he established his private practice as a family physician; he eventually moved his office to Derby. After retiring from private practice in 1991, he served as Director of the Granoff Student Health Center at Southern Connecticut State University for 10 years.

He took great satisfaction from his career as a family physician. His patients found him to be very approachable and a good listener; his care often was dispensed with sage advice, a quality that was also appreciated by many outside of his medical practice. Nicholas was preceded in death by his father at an early age, and his mother Eleanora, his beloved wife, Joan, his brothers Emanuel (and wife Frances) and Sib, and his daughters Michelle (Jindra) and Kimberly (Batter, Zevetchin). He is survived by his children, Carolyn and Michael (wife, Patricia), sons-in-law, David Zevetchin, and Josef Jindra, and many sistersand brothers-in-law, nieces, nephews, grandchildren, great grandchildren, and grand nieces and nephews.

Let's Take the Bus to Hartford...

Our first stop is Avon, originally named Northington in 1754 when the first meeting house was built. The Farmington Canal was completed in 1835, linking Avon to New Haven and Northampton, Mass. Passengers, produce and freight could easily make the trip from the Connecticut Valley to other regions in the state thus making more opportunities for economic growth. As we were celebrating women's right to vote in 2020, Avon's 860-acre boys' boarding school was designed and built by our country's first woman architect, Theodate Pope Riddle in 1927. Her home is open to the public as a museum.

The town of Berlin is in the geographic center of Connecticut, once the home of the Wangunks who lived along the Mattabessett River. As early as 1659, Richard Beckley of New Haven purchased 300 acres from Chief Taramaugus and settled in Western Wethersfield. Several groups moved from Farmington and New Britain, each adding a piece of their territory to form Berlin. Tinware, in the colonies was especially prized as it could be made locally and not dependent on buying iron goods from England. Pewter was finding fewer and fewer markets as one of its contents was lead which George Washington was most adamant about in his refusal to eat from a pewter plate while eating his morning meal at the Clark Tavern in Milford. The tin industry was one of Berlin's first industries.

The travelling tin peddler has been made popular through former tv shows as The Waltons but let me tell you that as the number of the war which has been associated with our recent turmoil in Washington, D.C. It was in Berlin, that Simeon North developed a milling machine to produce the first interchangeable parts for the flint-lock. It's no wonder that Connecticut has many old brick buildings since Berlin, after discovering clay deposits while laying RR tracks, produced 90,000 bricks a day!

The history of the early inhabitants of both Milford and Burlington with the Native Americans comes from their mutual association. Both the Tunxis and Paugussets had the same fears from the war-like Mohawks from the west and the Pequots from the east in their annual raids on their villages, pillaging their food they had in readiness for the winter. The Tunxis Tribe signed a deed for land known as Tunxis Plantation in 1640, just one year after Milford signed deeds from the Paugussets. Burlington is located on the western edge of Hartford County, a scenic hill town with many forests and waterways with almost half of the land in town owned by three > panies and the the town was undeveloped due to its rugged terrain and as with other towns, religious travel was difficult, causing changes in the towns. Settlement increased after the Revolutionary War with farmers adding another trade as a blacksmith, clockmaker and the tinsmith. Burlington's State Fish Hatchery in Nassahegon State Forest raises brown and rainbow trout to be distributed into states lakes, ponds, rivers and streams with public access. A note about North Milford (Orange). During the Revolutionary War, the building of one of the Treat houses on Grassy Hill Road ceased due to the fact that none of the blacksmiths or farmers with blacksmith knowledge were left after they enlisted in the war effort. Why did the building stop? There were no nails! How about a change of pace? Who knows where the Turkey Hills Ecclesiastical Society was?

Where were mulberry trees planted to feed the silk worms? How about the New England Air Museum? Another hint: Old Newgate Prison. (I wrote about it in one of my stories). And now for the giveaway, Bradley International Airport. Ok so the front "door" is in Windsor Locks but it's still on the eastern border of.....drum roll please! Yes, it's East Granby!

As with most Connecticut towns, farmers established the towns and East Granby is one of the last towns to be established by the General Assembly of Connecticut. Not every town has a notable person but to the kids in your family who like the I Spy books, the author lives in East Granby.

One town, a suburb of Hartford has maintained its agrarian roots in the growing of tobacco, not the kind for cigarettes but the wrapping for cigars. During the 20th century, East Windsor important our little state was and is to the whole 50 states. As you know, I wrote the section for Orange in the Connecticut 169 Club book but I have to tell you that there are some very interesting items of history up north. It was formally founded on the banks of the Connecticut River in 1693 with settlers having first arrived in 1636. With a land area of 52 square miles it's the 11th largest town named after the town of Glastonbury in Somerset, England. It's the home of the oldest continuously operating ferry in the U.S. dating back to 1655 and up until 1870, over 250 major sailing vessels were built exporting supplies to as far as the West Indies (Milford did that too, just in case you didn't remember that. Not that many ships but the West Indies part). It is believed to have had the first commercial soap manufacturing business in the world and if you like peaches, remember the name John Hale, known as Peach King Hale, as he developed a peach that would withstand New England winters and was disease resistant.

We all grew up with the Smith Brothers cough drops, right? Well, Glastonbury had the "Smith Sisters" five of them all abolitionists and supporters of the Women's Suffrage Movement. Through their efforts, changes were not only made in Connecticut but throughout the United States. Well, "You have reached your destination. You may get out now but I'm not going to help you carry your bags. From now on, you're on your own." * *Don Cleese – Tom Tom GPS tinsmiths grew in Berlin, the marketing of tinware expanded by the hiring of young salesmen to travel up and horse and wagon with their wares. The sound of the tinware clanking as the horse and wagon lumbered up the road was a delight to families in need of something "new" from the tin peddler. Little did the Irish immigrants, Edward and William Pattison envision in 1794, an industry which would become so successful. The Yankee Peddler became the iconic symbol of Berlin.

Another industry which connects one of my earlier stories is the flintlock pistols used in the War of 1812, was one of the largest tobacco producing towns in Connecticut with barns as far as you could see.

This town of 11,000 is comprised of 5 villages, Warehouse Point, Broad Brook, Windsorville, Scantic and Melrose. The first steamboat service in the United States began in East Windsor and can boast that it has one of the largest trolley museums in New England!
